When time, experience and professionalism matter!

First Aid vs. Pre-Hospital Care

In remote areas when someone is seriously sick or injured, first aid is an important first step in ongoing medical care. However, when an injury or illness exceeds the limitations of the aid being provided, receiving professional pre-hospital care can be vital to a patient's survival.

Our EMRs, EMTs and Paramedics can provide life saving procedures and medications normally done by responding ambulance personnel. Procedures such as oxygen therapy, intravenous therapy, cardiac monitoring, early cardiac care and airway control can all be done on site by LEMS staff.

Our Equipment and Staff

LEMS utilizes both 1 ton 4x4 mobile treatment centers (MTCs) and medical trailers which are able to operate as first aid rooms as outlined by Occupation Health and Safety guidelines. All LEMS units are stocked with all of the emergency equipment you would see in an urban ambulance.

LEMS staff members are licensed by the Alberta College of Paramedics. LEMS believes strongly in continuing education and training so our EMRs, EMTs, and Paramedics are prepared for any emergency they may face.
